

ABSTRACT

Systems and techniques relating to software for enterprise change, in particular to merger and acquisition processes and tools for one or more organizations. A method includes providing a single logical physically distributed information system across one or more information systems of at least two enterprises, wherein the enterprises are being combined, and providing a user interface to access the single logical physically distributed information system to execute one or more merger activities of the enterprises, the merger activities comprising a sales-related integration and a management of sales support activities, the sales support activities comprising addressing one or more customer issues for customer retention.

20772072.doc